SPORTS OF THE WEEK

FOOTBALL

Andover Beaten 21 to 0

The Phillips Andover varsity football team was defeated on Saturday afternoon by Harvard Freshmen by the score of 21 to 0. Andover was forced to play with a substitute team, as Captain Van Brocklin and Jones were down, owing to conditions, and Mahan had a bad ankle.
Brickley scored three touchdowns for Harvard, two coming after Andover had been forced to give up the ball on downs near her own goal through Nielson's inability to get off a punt before of poor passes. Once Bradley recovered a poor pass on a try at a field goal and ran 20 yards for a touchdown.

On the first play of the game,
Nielson made a 50-yard run through the Harvard team. Andover advanced well for a time. Then Nielson punted. Though well directed, the ball rolled too far to be of much advantage to Andover as it went over the goal line and was consequently given to Harvard at the 25-yard line. This situation was repeated a little while afterwards and Harvard was able to prevent Andover from scoring in the first period.
The Harvard line greatly outweighed Andover and for the remainder of the contest Andover was on the defensive.

Twice Andover held Harvard for three downs on the one-yard line, only to be scored on. Once Bradley fumbled the ball after he got over the line, but managed to recover it.

Andover Defeats Y. M. C. A.

The Andover football team of the Lowell-Lawrence Soccer league beat the Lowell Y. M. C. A. players, 3 to 1, Saturday afternoon on the Zion grounds. The visitors made two of their goals in the first half and one in the second. The Lowell team made its goal in the second half.
Croft's goal tending was the best exhibition given in Lowell this season.

The-New P. A. Swimming Pool

The new swimming pool which has been under construction at Phillips Academy during the past few months is now fast nearing completion, and the students are looking forward to its opening at an early date.

The pool, when finished will be one of the best and most up-to-date that is owned by any college or club. A description of the building and its equipment, as set forth in the Phillipian, is of interest.

The tank is seventy-five feet long and thirty feet wide. The deep end is 8 feet 9 inches below the level of the floor; the shallow end is 4 feet 9 inches below the level of the floor.
The capacity of the tank is 65,000 gallons of water. The sides and bottom of the tank are of ceramic tile.
It is interesting to note that 900,000 of these small blocks of tile are necessary to completely tile the tank.

The building extends 105 feet from the gymnasium, and is 44 feet 4 inches wide. The entrance is on the gymnasium end. On the south side there is a beautiful Palladian window. The walls will be of white enamel. The floor surrounding the pool is terrazzo. A drain along the side of the wall is for draining off all water that splashes up.

The gymnasium end balcony and French window are brick with Conway, N. H., granite trimmings. The roof is slate. There are four large skylights, each thirteen by sixteen feet.

The cost of filling the tank from the Andover supply is $13.90. After this the cost of water is very slight, because the same water may be used practically indefinitely on account of the wonderful system of filtering.
The water is first pumped into the tank by an electric pump. After it has been used, the water is pumped off and filtered thoroughly.

In connection with the main filters, there has been installed an auxiliary filter filled with crushed marble. This filter removes the iron from the water, and also relieves the other filters from the whole burden of the work. Another factor in the filter system is the chemical tank. The operator uses this for the treatment of the water. This is a very important factor in pool work. The regulating of these filters is not difficult.
The operator has only to move a few levers to complete the whole process.

There will be three spring-boards above the pool to dive from. Two sets of steps will lead down into the pool. These will be movable, and can be taken away during any meet.

A Pretty Freak of Nature

A strange plant combination was recently flowering in an English garden, says a writer in the October Strand. This was foxglove in bloom, with one Canterbury bell in perfect growth at the top of the stem. The flowers of the foxglove were cream, while the Canterbury bell was deep mauve. The botanist of the local Technical Institute says that "it is a freak of nature and worth taking special note of." It is the more strange as the flowers belong to different families.

A Hint to Poultry-Keepers

A rather novel method employed for curing hens of broodiness is illustrated in the October Strand. A stick about two feet in length is fastened on the back of the bird by means of two pieces of string, which are tied round the shoulders. This effectually prevents the hen from entering the fowl-house and sitting on the nest, and in a few days generally stops a hen from "wanting to sit," as people say.

HOW OLD PEOPLE

May Prolong Their Lives

At an advanced age waste is more rapid than repair. The organs act more slowly and less effectually than in youth. The circulation is poor, the blood thin and watery, the appetite poor and digestion weak.

We want to say to every aged person in this vicinity that Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic (without oil) will prolong life. It creates an appetite, aids digestion and makes good blood. In this natural manner Vinol retards waste and replaces weakness with strength, giving new life to the worn system.

If people in this vicinity only realized how Vinol invigorates old people we would not be able to supply the demand.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.

In New York CityA FUGITIVE FROM BAY STATE

Indicted on Thirty-Six Counts as Leader of Faro Syndicate Which Caused Ruin of Employe of National City Bank of Cambridge—Had Been Sought by Police Authorities For More Than a Year

Boston, Oct. 24.—Martin J. Walsh, indicted by the federal grand jury here on thirty-six counts charging that he aided and abetted in the wrecking of the National City bank of Cambridge in connection with George W. Coleman and "Big Bill" Kellher, who are now in jail, the former serving fifteen years in Greenfield jail, while the latter is waiting the results of an appeal on his sentence of eighteen years to the federal prison at Atlanta, died in New York.

Walsh, who, with his wife, had been visiting at the home of L. H. Snell at the Sonoma apartments, died suddenly at the apartments. Dr. Shuffeldt, who lives in the apartments, was called in. He said that in his opinion Walsh had died of acute indigestion.

Walsh, since the trials of Coleman and Kellher, is supposed to have been the head, front and brains of the faro syndicate through which the funds of the Cambridge bank were dissipated by Coleman on the alleged instigation of Kellher. Walsh was the man who worked the whole scheme, according to the findings of the federal grand jury, and he has been sought ceaselessly for more than a year. It developed that he was the "Jack Leonard" so frequently referred to during the trials.

He played the steamers between this country and Europe and accumulated and got rid of many comfortable fortunes. He was considered such a clever crook that his picture and that of his pal, Ed Marshall, had been posted conspicuously on all the big ocean liners as a couple of notorious gamblers. It is said that Walsh had his thumb nail filed to a point as sharp as a pin and that he so delicately marked cards by this method that nobody could detect anything wrong.

Walsh had a spectacular career from the time that he was a boy picking bottles and old rags on the dumps of Worcester until the time he became involved in the recent sensational "faro" game. He lived at various times in Peabody and Melrose, Mass., where many stories are told of his generosity to friends.

"I never trimmed an honest man," Walsh is credited with saying, "and the one that I always went after was the sucker who went out to do some one else. That is a better creed than most business men have. I see nothing wrong about it."

WHY WE HAVE "GROUCHES"

Pretty Model Explains That It Is Due to Cramped Feet

Chicago, Oct. 26.—"Bare feet in the street and at home are just as sensible as bare hands—if not more so. Cramped feet account for the modern 'grouch.' If the people of today would go barefooted for five years it would work a miracle in our dispositions. Shoes have caused more wrinkles than age."

So says Beula L. Edgington, who is one of the prettiest models posing for commercial art work in Chicago. In New Orleans, where Miss Edgington has taken part in the Mardi Gras for five years, there is a club of young men and women who wear sandals summer and winter.

LOSES $700 ALLOWANCE

Postmaster Might Have Saved It by Spending a Dollar

Washington, Oct. 26.—The postmaster at East Berlin, Conn., reports that his receipts in the last year were $999.

If he had spent a dollar for stamps, his receipts would have been $1000, the minimum allowable if his office was to continue in the third class.

But the dollar was not spent for stamps, and so the postmaster general, under the law, must, he said, put East Berlin back into the fourth class.

That cuts off the annual allowance of $700 for rent, fuel and clerk hire.

Hundred Horses Perish

Boston, Oct. 24.—Fire caused $50,000 damage and 100 horses perished when the large stable of the John H. Winslow Contracting company, Granite avenue, Milton, was destroyed.

Detroit, Oct. 23.—Mayor Thompson and the Detroit United Railways have come to an agreement and Detroit will have 3-cent fares.

BANKER WALSH'S DEATH

It Closely Follows His Release From Leavenworth Federal Prison

Chicago, Oct. 24.—John R. Walsh, the recently paroled banker, died suddenly of heart disease here. Walsh was recently released from Leavenworth penitentiary, to which he was sentenced for wrecking three Chicago banks. He left the prison a week ago last Saturday.

Although Walsh had been in feeble health since his parole from the penitentiary not even the members of his family believed his death was so near. Months before his release his health began to fail.

Walsh was born in County Cork, Ireland, 74 years ago, and came here more than sixty years ago. His early struggle was hard. From peddling newspapers he developed into large newspaper dealings, and gradually acquired funds until he gained a place in a bank.

THREATENED TO KILL TAFT

Minneapolis Man Will Be Sent to State Insane Asylum

Minneapolis, Oct. 25.—Having repeatedly declared he would kill President Taft upon the latter's arrival in Minneapolis, Julius Bergerson, 52 years old, was placed in the county jail following an inquiry into his mental condition.

Declared insane, Bergerson will be held until transfer to the state insane asylum at Rochester.

Before the commission it was testified that for a month Bergerson had been telling his friends he intended to kill the president. N. D. Besseken, a lawyer, said he paid little attention to the man's threats until yesterday, when they were repeated. The attorney, becoming alarmed, notified the sheriff's office.

Rewarded For Giving Sleeping

Car Berth to Elderly Woman

New Haven, Oct. 25.—Ernest W. Marlowe of New York, recently graduated from Harvard, gets $110,000 for giving up his sleeping car berth to an elderly woman passenger. The passenger was Miss Helen A. Marsh of this city, whose will was filed for probate here yesterday.

About fifteen years ago Marlowe, traveling from New York to Washington, gave up his sleeping car berth to Miss Marsh, a stranger to him then, who had been unable to get sleeper accommodations. Miss Marsh sent Marlowe through college and law school, and now leaves him the bulk of her property.

OF INTEREST TO WEAVERS

Attorney General Rules That Grading Is Equivalent to Fining

Boston, Oct. 26.—Attorney General Swift has sent to Chief Whitney of the district police a ruling which is of importance to weavers throughout the commonwealth, inasmuch as it requires the state police to consider the system of grading in the same light as fining, which is prohibited by law.

In many mills it is the common practice for overseers to determine cloth to be of inferior quality and to pay the weaver a second-grade price for it, thus circumventing the statute which prohibits the imposition of a direct fine upon weavers for imperfections in their work.

The attorney general holds, however, that grading is in effect fining, and that it is prohibited by law.

HEARS DEATH SENTENCE

Phelps Must Go to Electric Chair For Killing Haskins

Greenfield, Mass., Oct. 26.—Silas N. Phelps, who shot and killed Deputy Sheriff Emmett F. Haskins, will pay the penalty for his deed in the electric chair at the state prison during the week beginning Dec. 31. Judge Fessenden, in the Franklin county superior court, sentenced the man to death yesterday afternoon and set the date.

Before sentence was imposed Phelps reiterated his protestation of innocence, declaring that the evidence had been "framed up" against him, and that if granted a new trial he could prove that he was not guilty.

Haskins was killed June 12, 1910, on the doorsteps of the Phelps home at Monroe, when he went to arrest Phelps on an assault charge.

Woman Gets $10,000 Land Prize

Gregory, S. D., Oct. 25.—Mary J. Kendall of Rapid City, S. D., drew No. 1 at the drawing for the 4000 prizes in the Rosebud land allotment. It is estimated to be worth $10,000. The drawing will take three days.

To Stop Undervaluations and Erroneous Classification

GOES INTO EFFECT NOV. 1

Plan of Sweeping Nature Requires Regular Reports by Appraisers Throughout the Country to Be Made to Experts at New York, Which Becomes Great Clearing House For Disputes—Where Credit Is Due

Washington, Oct. 26.—The most sweeping plan of administration reform in the memory of the customs service is outlined by the treasury department, through Assistant Secretary Curtis.

The plan provides that beginning Nov. 1, 1911, all appraising offices throughout the country will submit to the appraiser at New York, either weekly, daily or monthly, as the case may be, a sample label covering each article of merchandise appraised during the period in question, except articles imported in bulk, perishable articles, live animals and articles covered by specific paragraphs of the tariff with respect to American articles exported in return, books for the use of the government, household effects used abroad for more than a year, personal effects of citizens of the United States dying in foreign countries, plants and seeds imported for the department of agriculture and personal effects of returning travelers.

Actual samples of all merchandise imported also will be forwarded when practicable, to provide a check against undervaluations and erroneous classifications and to avoid discrepancies in the classification and appraisement of merchandise at the various ports of entry.

Each sample and label will be carefully compared by the appraising officers of New York with the returns of that port and with the returns of similar merchandise at the other ports of entry, and all discrepancies will be made the subject of correspondence between the appraisers at New York and the customs officers reporting on the same merchandise.

If an agreement cannot be reached by correspondence between the local officers, the matter will be submitted to the department for decision and the appraiser at New York will report to the department monthly all discrepancies and appraisals and classifications noted by him and the action taken thereon.

The system thus will make New York a great clearing house for customs disputes and will give the treasury department simultaneously the advantage of the opinion of the leading customs experts of the country when questions are submitted to Washington for decision.

The primary aim of the new plan is to bring about uniformity of classification and appraisement, thus at once minimizing the labor of the treasury department and so standardizing the methods at each port of entry that the business world will be saved much time, money and litigation.

It should be said that the new system is being instituted upon the suggestion of the board of general appraisers and is not, therefore, a reform initiated in Washington. The Payne law omitted from the functions of the board the duty of exercising such supervision over appraisements and classifications as might be necessary to secure uniformity.

The department, having assumed jurisdiction of this task, is in a much better position to work out good results than the board of general appraisers, as it has complete control of the administrative machinery and can act with more freedom than the board, which is a semi-judicial body.

LYNN CUTTERS WILL STICK

Declare That Employers Are Wrong in Their Contentions

Lynn, Mass., Oct. 24.—The largest meeting ever held by Lynn shoe cutters took place last night, when over 1000 members of Cutters' assembly 3662, K. of L., assembled to prove that their enthusiasm was as strong as ever and that they were still in favor of a forty-five-hour week.

It was announced that Lawyers George F. Williams and J. S. Slak, who had been asked for an opinion as to whether or not the cutters had violated any agreement with their employers, declared that the employers were at fault, as there was no stipulation in the agreement as to the hours of labor.

Woman Kills Self and Six Children Braddock, N. D., Oct. 24.—Mrs. Axel Johnson, wife of a prosperous farmer near here, locked herself and six small children in their home and set fire to the house after saturating the room with kerosene. All were burned to death.

COST OF LIVING

The present high prices on most commodities mark a condition that is attributed by some to tariff reforms, by some to trade manipulation, and by others to the dearth of natural products. We believe that while each of these three elements have their influence in the case, none of them have been so potent a factor as our passive submission.

It is not always so easy to mark the beginning of economic changes, as it is in this instance, for while there is some disagreement as to its cause, there is a striking unanimity of assent that it began in 1907.

Previous to that year it must be admitted, and is, by all who know anything about the inside of the matter, competition amongst producers had brought the margin of profit on all manufactured articles down to an almost ruinous figure. In many cases this margin was so slight that the manufacturers themselves could not tell whether or not they were making any profit whatever on certain articles. So, in order to run their factories in a profit-producing manner, some of them ventured a slight increase in their prices, which at that time was perfectly just and allowable. Others, noting the success of this essay, felt it was safe to do likewise. Up to this point it was all proper procedure, and everyone accepted the situation with smiling indulgence. And here is where the Old Harry stepped in. "It was such an easy matter, let's announce another slight advance in prices to take effect Jan. 1st." It took effect. And the public has suffered many similar shocks since. This idea of raising prices, you will recall, did not begin with food-stuffs; but had its inception with the manufacturers. Do you not see that it is mostly due to the fact that we admit and accept, and expect added burdens of this kind, that we are struggling under them.

But cheer up. There is a way out of it. Be advised by us and you will do your share in bringing about a sure and rapid improvement. Do not pay the high prices when you can help it; but trade where you can get the most for your money.

We have been selling furniture since long before the beginning of the high price epoch; and do declare to you who do not already know it, that our prices have not increased through all these troublous times, on any kind of merchandise we sell. Neither do we pay any more for them, excepting in the case of linoleum, and on that but little more, than we did eight years ago. When a salesman calls on us and quotes prices which in our judgment smack of graft, we have not enough interest in his wares to look them over.

You do the same in your purchasing, and tell your friends to do it also, and between us all we surely will be able to prove the efficacy of education to the end of a reversal of the present order of things.

Buy your furniture and floor covering at the prices you paid ten years ago, and refuse to pay more. Come to the place where it may be effected without argument.

Yours truly,

A Good Rally

That was an excellent rally at the Town Hall on Monday night. The attendance was large, the speaking was good, and from beginning to end, the attention of the audience was aroused and held. Mr. Luce came to Andover for his first speech in this town; and his reputation as an orator was found by those who heard him for the first time, to have been amply justified. While he was not as effective in purely oratorical ways as he is on many occasions, he did get at his subject and arouse himself in his presentation in a way that convinced his hearers of his ability to speak, his ability to analyze, and his skill to debate.

Congressman Foster was also a new-comer to Andover, but he quickly got into the good graces of the entire audience and held their attention for practically three-quarters of an hour on the discussion of national issues. His analysis of the problem that is up to the Massachusetts voter in the present election made his coming to the state not only worth while, but a sure aid in the present election.

The Andover public isn't very well acquainted with the style in which the last speaker of the evening presented his case, but if there seemed to many of those present a little too much of the personal pronoun and not quite as careful selection of words as one could wish, in Register of Deeds Marshall's speech, Andover people can well overlook this situation with the knowledge they have of the very efficient manner in which he has done his work as Register. He has been an excellent official and certainly deserves a reelection. The Republican Town Committee planned the rally with great care and they are to be congratulated upon the success that attended it. They have shown that they are well organized and capable of carrying on an effective campaign, and the result promises pretty well for local returns on November 7.

The Andover Seminary

The Andover Seminary is at last established as a Cambridge institution. The dedication of its new and beautiful buildings finished up the preliminary work that has been necessary to change it from its long-time home on Andover Hill to the Harvard Yard.

Now that it has changed its location, we can't help feeling that it might have been better had it changed its name. It will always be rather confusing having it called the Andover Seminary located in Cambridge. To be sure, there are many people who associate the word Andover with a peculiar form of religion, but if Dr. Fitch is to be taken as spokesman for the new creed as it is to be worked out in the present institution, the religion of the new Andover Seminary is going to be much broader and more liberal than that of the old. However that may be, why continue to associate the declining and at least disrupted institution known as "Andover" with the new institution. We can't see how it can help our educational institutions that are left here; nor how it can be of any great advantage to the institution as it is now located in Cambridge. We can rather see that it is an injury to Andover in the attention which its lack of success at Andover attracts whenever it is discussed.

As a citizen of the town and one who dislikes to have the name of the town associated with anything that spells failure, we cannot refrain from wishing that instead of the Andover Seminary at Cambridge, it might be Cambridge Theological Seminary. We presume the alumni would object to this, and we can understand the sentiment that would lead them to this objection, but certainly there are many reasons why their objections should be over-ruled.

Governor and Council

It isn't surprising that the conflict between the Governor and Council has at last reached the place where there is an open breach. This condition has been brewing for a long time, and when the public fully understands the situation, it is likely to have much larger confidence in the Council than it has had heretofore.

The Governor has undoubtedly "played politics" with every appointment he has made. He has undoubtedly planned every one of his acts during his entire ten months for its political effect, and in no place have these acts been set forth so clearly as where there has come an issue directly between the Governor and the Council. The notable exception to this is the number of excellent appointments he has made to the Bench which have invariably been approved by the Council.

When they insist that he shall reappoint certain officials, they are taking that position entirely upon his own early declaration that no man who had made an efficient public servant need fear for a reappointment. He knows and has publicly stated that Frederick L. Pettigrove as Prison Commissioner has made a more than satisfactory public servant so far as the people who have to do with the correctional institutions express an opinion, yet he has failed to reappoint him. He knows and has so expressed it that Clinton White has been an official of the highest order in discharging his duties as Railroad Commissioner, yet he has failed to reappoint him because a political expediency has made it necessary for him to recognize the demand of a particular Boston newspaper. He knows this is true where he has substituted new names for other tried and efficient public servants, and the Council believes that it is time to call a halt and refuse to be a party to disorganizing the public service of the state for the benefit of the political fortunes of its present chief executive.

We hope they will stand firm. If they do, they will make many people who now have little use for them in some respects, have a much larger confidence in the system of government that continues them, and in the character of service which most of them, who are exceedingly able business men, return to the state.

Editorial Cinders

The closing session of the South Church anniversary held on Sunday last was a fitting exercise with which to end the many events of the anniversary period. It is going to be a long time before the next hundred years passes over this church or before a period equal to that which has just been marked is measured by any of the other religious institutions in the town. For this reason it has been wise for those who control affairs at the South Church to make a great deal of this particular event. The program has been well carried out. Old acquaintances have been renewed and many former pastors and former parishioners have returned to give their greetings to the church as it is today. The several pastors who have spoken as former boys in the church, who have gone out and become leaders in the religious life in other communities, have all showed that the foundations were well laid in Andover. The older ones who have come back after many strays in other places have found that their work of years ago still followed them. All in all, it has been an occasion of great importance not alone to the church, but to the community.

We expressed an opinion last week that Governor Foss ought to have promoted Assistant Register Hines in the Probate Court office. We still adhere to that same position, but if a new man is to be chosen because of party exigencies as they exist, from all accounts it would appear that the Governor has selected for that position a very efficient man in the person of Mr. Bogue. Our desire for the retention of Assistant Register Hines had no reflection in it upon the worth or merit of the one who had been chosen instead, and general opinion so freely expressed that Mr. Bogue will make good in the office is welcome news to those who might have wished for a different choice on the part of the Governor.

Phillips Hall to Be Repaired

It has been decided by the trustees of Phillips Academy to repair Phillips Hall, the dormitory in the Seminary Row, which a short time ago was declared to be unsafe for further use. It was at first thought that it would be necessary to tear down the building, which is the oldest of all the Seminary buildings, dating back to 1808.

On more careful study it was found that it can be repaired. The news was welcome to members and friends of the school, for around the old hall center many interesting associations, making the preservation of it doubly desirable.

Tendered Household Shower

Miss Margaret Cole was tendered a household shower on Thursday afternoon by the members of the Five Hundred club. The club had been invited by Miss Cole to meet at her home, and the members gladly availed themselves of the opportunity to "shower" her with numerous pretty and useful articles. This feature of the afternoon's program was entirely unexpected by the hostess, but she recovered from her surprise and entertained her friends in her usual charming way.

Those present were Mrs. George Hussey, the chief instigator of the shower, Misses Lulu and Josephine Abbott, Mrs. M. F. D'Arcy, Miss Madeleine Hewes, Mrs. Horace Hale Smith, Mrs. Stanley Pratt, Mrs. Joseph Blunt, Miss Alice Coutts, Mrs. John N. Cole, and Misses Elizabeth and Margaret Cole.

ROUSING REPUBLICAN RALLY

Large Number of Andover Citizens Hear Addresses on Campaign Issues at Republican Rally

The Republican rally held in the Town hall on Monday evening was the most successful and interesting gathering of that nature which has taken place in Andover for some time. There was a goodly attendance of voters and also ladies, to listen to the excellent speakers who had been secured by the Republican Town Committee. Music was rendered by the Andover Brass Band.

Andover Republicans were fortunate indeed in having an opportunity of hearing two such well known speakers as Robert Luce, candidate for lieutenant governor, and Congressman Foster of Vermont. Hon. John N. Cole was also present and favored the audience with an address. The other speakers were Harry M. Eames, candidate for reelection to the House of Representatives, and Moses Marshall of Lawrence, candidate for the position of Register of Deeds.

Mr. Luce and Congressman Foster together with Judge Geo. H. Poor, who presided at the rally, reached Andover shortly before six o'clock, and were entertained at dinner by Mr. Cole. The party reached the hall at eight o'clock, and the speaking commenced soon afterwards.

Mr. Eames was called upon first by Judge Poor. He thanked the voters present for his re-nomination, and stated that if elected he will give his most careful consideration to every matter that comes before the House, so that he will be enabled to cast his vote in the best possible way.

Mr. Luce was the next speaker. He said that the campaign this year is remarkable in several ways. This is in part owing to the trying out of the new primary law, and the consequent harmony and courage which have come to the Republican party. He said that the support of the newspapers is also unusual as not only the regular party organs but the independent papers as well have realized the issues at stake and are supporting the Republican candidates. He then went on to discuss the tariff question and to answer the arguments of his opponents in regard to that question. On the subject of the high and increased cost of living he said that the trouble in America is that manufacturers have not solved the problem of getting manufactured articles from the maker to the user without great cost, and that the elimination of this factor will have a great bearing upon prices. Mr. Luce said in part:

"One reason for our confidence this year is the attitude of the newspapers. Of course the party organs on either side voice party sentiment as usual, and so far as it is Republican, we are grateful for help that is even more hearty than usual, but naturally we find more significance in the attitude of journals nominally independent. This year they are supporting Mr. Frothingham with vigor for two reasons—first, because they agree with us that the industries of Massachusetts are in danger, and secondly because they cannot approve the administration of Mr. Foss.

"In the matter of the tariff they respond to the unanimous demand of the business men of the country that the tariff shall be taken out of politics by action hereafter on the basis of information secured by the non partisan agents of a tariff board, with scientific revision schedule by schedule as President Taft urges. Newspapers today are business enterprises and their publishers have as much at stake in the prosperity of the community as anybody else. Those in our state know well what harm might have been done to the great industries that employ a quarter of our wage-earners had not the president vetoed the three guesswork tariff bills. They know how the purchasing power of the people might have been affected. They know that fear of another wholesale revision of the tariff helps to delay the revival of business. They know that Democratic success on the tariff issue would hurt Massachusetts. So this time they are with us."

In answer to the question propounded by Sherman Whipple in Boston last week, Mr. Luce said:

"The question in full is: 'Why do you offer to reduce the Payne-Aldrich tariff if that reduction will not lower the cost of living for the people? And if you concede that lowering the tariff will lower prices, why are not the present high prices due to the vetoes of a Republican president?'

"The answer is: 'We offer to reduce the tariff wherever that will lower the cost of living for the people without at the same time lowering their income to the same or a greater degree. We hold that lower prices will be penny-'

CHURCH ANNIVERSARY CLOSES

Sunday Services Bring to an End Notable Observance of the 300 Years of the South Church

The observance of the two hundredth anniversary of the South church came to a close on Sunday, October 22. For eleven days, the special services arranged for the occasion have been carried on, and the period has been one of great enjoyment and satisfaction to all concerned. Not only has the 200 years of past history of the church been made more familiar to all by the historical and reminiscent addresses which have been made, but the church itself has undoubtedly received a new impetus for work in the years to come.

The story of the closing observances is given below.

The Men's Club Meeting

A large number of men from the various men's church clubs and organizations gathered on Friday evening to enjoy the hospitality of the South Church Men's Club. The visitors were welcomed by J. Harold Melledge, president of the club.

Governor Foss was unable to be present, but the audience thoroughly enjoyed an address made by Dr. Bridgman, editor of the "Congregationalist," on A Man's Duty to the Church.

Caleb Fox of Boston, rendered several solos which added to the enjoyment of the occasion. He was accompanied by F. G. Moore.

Refreshments of cake, ice-cream, and sandwiches were served.

The Sunday School Party

On Saturday afternoon the children of the primary and intermediate departments enjoyed a party in the church vestry. About fifty boys and girls were present.

It had originally been planned to make the affair a lawn party, and to spend the afternoon out of doors, but the weather unfortunately precluded any such arrangement. The children thoroughly enjoyed themselves in the vestry, however, and played games to their hearts' content, and partook of the refreshments served.

The Sunday Morning Service

The Sunday morning service was attended by a large congregation, notwithstanding the disagreeable weather, and proved to be one of the most enjoyable services held during the anniversary week. The choir again distinguished itself, singing as the anthem of the morning, Dudley Buck's Festival "Te Deum." Stainer's Seven Fold Amen was also rendered as a response.

THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY BUILDINGS DEDICATED WEDNESDAY

DEDICATED NEW BUILDING

Andover Theological Seminary Dedicates Its New Home at Cambridge. Many Distinguished Guests at Dedication.

The new home of the Andover Theological Seminary at Cambridge was dedicated on Wednesday with impressive services, held during the afternoon and evening. Members of the Seminary, and distinguished guests from various parts of the country were in attendance.

The preliminary exercises were conducted by Prof. Edward Y. Hineks, Prof. William H. Ryder and Prof. John W. Platner of the Seminary. President George Harris of Amherst college, president of the board of trustees, delivered an address on behalf of that body. He told of the founding of the Seminary at Andover in 1808, of its growth there and its removal to Cambridge in 1908.

"In spite of the change in location," said President Harris, "the Seminary still retains its traditions and its high purpose of sending out its pupils imbued with the true Christian spirit and desire to serve their fellowmen." He spoke in commendation of the new building and its thorough equipment to meet the needs of the Seminary, and expressed his belief that in its new environment the Seminary will prosper beyond anything that it has expected. At the close of his address he turned over the building to the faculty.

President Albert Parker Fitch, '00, accepted the building on behalf of the faculty. He spoke on "The Seminary and the University," saying that although the Seminary was largely sectarian during the past 100 years, being closely allied with the Congregational faith, during the next 100 years it will be primarily non-sectarian.

"This alliance with Harvard," said President Fitch, "is to be academic and not ecclesiastical. For this reason the faculty must be composed of scholars and not of sectarian ministers." After outlining the influence which the ecclesiastical tendency has had in the teaching of theology and in the education of those connected with the various creeds, he gave as his belief that theology must hereafter follow more closely the standards of an exact science; that it should not be bound down by conformity to any church or creed.

"A seminary, when connected with the university," he said, "can build up a theology which is the product of the teachings of Jesus Christ, and which is broad rather than narrow in scope. Since the seminary is free, being connected with the university, it is able to find and realize its true authority. Here it can find its power as it can nowhere else. It has been the tragedy of denominational theological schools that they have perpetuated ancient traditions and superstitions, and have not been free to develop along original lines of thought."

He expressed the hope that the seminary faculty might cooperate most heartily with the faculty of the Harvard Divinity School, and spoke of the great advantages to be derived by the seminary students from courses taken in the Harvard institutions. During the past three years the Andover school has carried on its work in partial dependence on the Harvard school, but now it is in a position to give to the Harvard school as much and more than it has received. The large theological library has been inaccessible to Andover students since the removal to Cambridge, but the completion of the new building, with its fine library facilities, will furnish room for the housing of this splendid collection of books.

At the close of the service the dedicatory prayer was delivered by Rev. George A. Gordon '81, of the Old South Church, Boston.

An elaborate dinner to a large number of invited guests was served in the Fiske Museum, on the lower floor of the new building, at 6 o'clock. At 7.30 o'clock Dr. A. T. Davison, leader of the University choir, gave an organ recital in the Chapel. This was followed by a general reception in the Farrar room, at which informal addresses were made by Dean W. W. Fenn of the Harvard Divinity School, Rev. Dr. W. D. Hyde, president of Bowdoin College, Rev. Francis Brown, president of Union Theological Seminary, and Dr. Charles W. Eliot, under whose presidency at Harvard the Seminary was moved to Cambridge.

Coming—the Grange Fair

Preparations are now being made for the annual fair of Andover Grange, which is to take place in Grange Hall, on Thursday evening, November 9, and Friday afternoon and evening, November 10.

The usual attractive features will be in evidence. To begin with, a Grange turkey supper will be served from six o'clock on. Any comment on the excellence of the turkey and other "fixins" is unnecessary, as their fame is securely established in Andover and in the surrounding towns as well. Supper tickets, 35 cents.

Various articles will be on sale, at the fancy, china, candy, apron and vegetables. There will also be a mysterious "Lemon Woman," who must be seen to be appreciated.

On Thursday evening an entertainment entitled the "Bingville Chorus," will be given, while on Friday evening the program will be of a musical nature. Admission to the fair and entertainment will be 25 cents.

For the accommodation of people living in the center of the town, a free barge will leave the square at 6.30 and 7.30 p.m. each evening.

Lecture on Russia

Thursday evening, November 2, at eight o'clock, in the Archaeology Building, Andover Hill, F. B. Wright will lecture on "Russia and Her Asiatic Possessions." The lecture is fully illustrated with beautiful pictures. Mr. Wright is the son of Prof. G. F. Wright, formerly of Andover, and has traveled extensively for some years throughout the Orient and Russia. He will be able to tell an Andover audience much concerning conditions in Russia. The lecture is free and the public cordially invited to attend.

Ordained as Minister

The ordination and installation of Rev. Lawrence D. Somers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Somers of this town, took place on Tuesday of last week at Barrington, R. I.

His installation over the historic Congregational church in that place occasioned the assembling of pastors and delegates from a dozen churches in the vicinity and interested friends as well from Brookline and Cambridge, where Mr. Somers is well known.

He is a graduate of Harvard in the class of 1903, and last June completed his course at the Divinity School.

Professor Edward C. Moore, one of his instructors, offered the ordaining prayer, and Professor J. Winthrop Platner of Andover Seminary gave the charge to the pastor. The sermon was preached by Rev. Harris G. Hale of Leyden church, Brookline, of which Mr. Somers has long been a member, and the Scriptures were read by his brother-in-law, Rev. H. A. Bridgman, of the Congregationalist.

Curtis's Indian Pictures

In the Lawrence Opera House tonight, Mr. Curtis, the famous Indian photographer, will give a unique entertainment illustrating the songs of American Indians together with a series of Indian portraits in colors, and motion pictures of Indian dances and ceremonies. Mr. Curtis exhibited his photographs in Dresden recently and received the World's prize over all other photographers.

He carries an orchestra of nine pieces, and these musicians render Indian music during the evening. The entertainment is highly spoken of in all the cities where it has been given.

ANDOVER DRAMATIC CLUB

"The Barn-Stormers."

At the Directors' meeting of the Dramatic Club this week the program for the winter was decided. The play chosen for the first performance was "The Progress of Mrs. Alexander."

This play was selected for presentation by the Harvard Club from those offered at the two competitions open to recent graduates of Harvard and Radcliffe annually, and was given for the first time December 12, 1910.

The work of the Harvard Club is especially interesting as it is the only college organization devoted to the unique idea of encouraging play-writing as well as acting, and it is through the work of this club that the prizes for original plays by college undergraduates have been offered at the Castle Square Theatre, Boston, with such valuable results for both the public and the young authors.

The advisory committee which forms the jury of the Harvard Club consists of Mr. Winthrop Ames, director of the New Theatre, New York, Mr. George Pierce Baker, Professor of Dramatic literature at Harvard, and Mr. H. T. Parker, dramatic critic of the Transcript.

The Andover Club owe thanks to Professor Baker, through whose interest and effort Miss Stanwood, the author and owner of the play arranged terms for the Club which enabled it to present the play, which is not free for amateurs to act, and to Miss Stanwood for her material encouragement to this new Club and its purposes.

"Mrs. Alexander's Progress" presents the amusing story of a charming Western woman of boundless ambition, who decides to come East and become a social leader. Her temptations, successes, partial demoralization, and the final triumph of a warm, honorable, human nature, and the influence of her experience on her life and that of her husband is vividly presented. The wit is delightful, and the characterization distinct. To those knowing Boston social life the last act is intensely amusing, satirizing with great humor some of its recent episodes and the extraordinary seriousness with which Bostonians take themselves.

"Mrs. Alexander's Progress" will be presented in the Town Hall the second week in December, by the Andover Dramatic Club, which has adopted the title of "The Barn-Stormers" for its official name.

Wedding

ABBOTT-KEERY

Miss Elizabeth Keery and George Abbott, both of this town, were married on Wednesday evening of this week at the home of the bride on Harding street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frederic Palmer, D.D.

The bride wore a gown of white messaline. She was attended by her sister, Miss Susie Keery, who wore lavender silk. Two other sisters, Minor and Agnes, acted as flower girls. The groom was attended by Benjamin Myers as best man.

Following the ceremony a turkey supper was served to the assembled guests by Caterer Rhodes.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Abbott will reside in Lawrence.

4.15 p.m. Service at the Missionary Boulder.
The people of Andover will be asked to entertain delegates for Saturday night and part of Sunday. The Wellesley delegates will remain over Sunday night. Those who are willing to entertain are asked to communicate with their pastors, or with Mr. W. Stackpole.

I. O. G. T. Notes

Pride of Andover Juvenile lodge, I. O. G. T., will entertain the members of Excelsior Juvenile lodge of North Andover in the Baptist church hall, on Saturday afternoon, October 28. The meeting is called for 2.30 p.m. A spelling competition between the two lodges will be the big event of the afternoon, and a good program is all ready for the occasion. The friends of the Juveniles are invited to attend.
Andover lodge, I. O. G. T., No. 26, held a very successful meeting in the A. O. U. W. hall Tuesday evening. The meeting was an open one, and a good number of people were present and enjoyed the following program: Piano selection, Miss Elizabeth Guthrie; song, Alex Valentine; duet, Mrs. Valentine and Joseph Mungo. The great event of the evening was the Creighton troupe of Highland dancers, composed of Miss Mary Auchterlonie, Kirk Auchterlonie and John Mathison of Boston. This troupe entertained the company with the Highland dance, sword dance and Irish jig. Mr. Mathison was a bit in the sailors' hornpipe. Miss Myrtis McDermitt accompanied the dancers on the piano with great success. Other features of the evening were as follows: Song by Mrs. Grant; song by Miss Davina Auchterlonie, in costume, "Coming thro' the Rye"; Joseph Mungo in kilts fairly brought the house down with his song "Stop Your Tickling, Jock." After the program, coffee and doughnuts were served. The meeting closed by the singing of Auld Lang Syne. The lodge hopes in the future to have more meetings of this kind.

Reading

The book-worm who reads and reads may be what is called a well read man and yet have little common sense. The man who eats and eats may not be so good an athlete as the man who eats moderately and digests what he eats. The long evenings are now come again and they are made shorter by the man who enjoys reading. There are so many books today, newspapers and magazines galore, that when the wise man said "of the making of books there is no end," he knew what he was saying. I don't know what he would have said if he had been living today. Very likely his idea would be to burn fully one-half of the trash called novels, also some newspapers and monthlies.

I wish to speak chiefly to the young men at our factories about reading. Having a hobby is a good thing if the hobby be of the right kind. Reading is a good kind of hobby; yet, it is only a little better than card-playing, that's all. Now, I don't object to card-playing. It has its place. But to have no other way of passing your time shows a vacant and uncultivated mind, just as the reading of trashy novels shows a flippant and childish kind of character. Like many other things, the taste for good reading is an acquired taste. Our library has many good books; books of travel, history, biography and fiction. Just as pepper and salt are relished with food, so the amount of what is called light reading should only come in as condiments to what is read. It is for each one for himself to take the right quantity of pepper and salt. There are many novels worth reading; at the same time there are novels not worth the ink and paper. A list of the twenty best books has been given lately by several learned men. In all the lists the Bible is one of the twenty—not because they think it was printed in heaven, bound in red morocco and let down to earth by a silver cord, but, as they truly say, that one cannot intelligently read other books without being versed in Bible lore. As illustrating this truth, the following experience that I had with three high school boys I cannot refrain from telling—merely remarking that these three boys are now good, useful citizens. The school was what they call studying Shakespeare, and they were reading "The Merchant of Venice." These young men were told that I was a crank about Shakespeare, and asked me to hear them read about Shylock. The ignorance they showed of Bible knowledge fairly took away my breath; I could scarcely believe that in this so-called Christian country, and in this sanctified town of Andover, such gross ignorance existed, especially as they were studying algebra, astronomy and half a dozen more "onomys" at the high school. When Shylock is asked to dinner by his Christian friends, who wish to borrow some money, his reply is "Yes, to smell of pork; to eat of the habitation your prophet the Nazarene conjured the devil into."

ANNIVERSARY CLOSES

The sermon was preached by Rev. James Austin Richards, now pastor of the Mount Vernon Street church, Boston. Mr. Richards took as his text, part of the second verse of the first chapter of first Corinthians, "The church of God which is in Corinth," and, based upon those words, he delivered a forceful address on the church of today and its relations to life.

Among other things he said that the world of today does not doubt the past greatness of the church, but is less certain of its greatness today, and not at all certain of its greatness on the morrow. He spoke of the criticisms of the church heard on all sides, and proceeded to show how groundless are these criticisms and how the church stands preeminent among all the other institutions of the world. This preeminence is assured by the fact that the church is unique in its relations to individual life. No other institution reaches all classes of people, rich and poor, sick and well, educated and ignorant, as does the church. All philanthropic and charitable organizations, hospitals and homes have their origin in the church, and even if this were not true, the influence of these latter is of necessity limited. The church is not limited in any sense of the word, for it reaches all.

The preeminence of the church is also shown by the fact that it is unique in the effectiveness of its work. That it is thorough in its undertakings is evident by the results which have been obtained, and by their vastness.

The church's preeminence is also assured because it is the only institution that realizes the chief cause of the world's troubles, sin, and shows that by the elimination of that cause, the greater part of vice, disease and ignorance can be done away with. Mr. Richards closed his sermon with an urgent appeal for all to help in the development of the spirit of brotherhood, and to stand by the "church of God which is at Andover."

The Evening Service

The union musical service, with which the day and also the observance of the anniversary came to a close, took place at half past seven. All of the Protestant churches of the town were represented, and the service was chiefly one of song and praise. The choir rendered Parker's "The Lord is my light," with the solos by Miss Lillian N. Pike and J. Everett Collins. Mrs. Mary S.

These learned high school boys were not aware that it is a part of the Jewish religion to abstain from eating pork; they had no idea who the Nazarene prophet was, and had never read of devils being put into swine. As the play goes on, they begin to speak of lending money and getting interest for it. Shylock says: "When Jacob grazed his uncle Laban's sheep— This Jacob from our holy Abraham was (As his wise mother wrought in his behalf) The third possessor—ay he was the third—"

Asked if Jacob took interest, Shylock replies: "No, not take interest, not as you would say Directly interest; mark what Jacob did."

These three high school students did not know that Abraham was Jacob's grandfather; they knew nothing of the story of Jacob, at the instigation of his "wise mother," cheating his brother Esau out of his birthright, and were profoundly ignorant of what Jacob did to get Laban's cattle to produce the right color to suit his taste.

Not to be tedious, I skip over several pages and come to the fourth act of this interesting comedy. When Portia says that the Jew is entitled to his pound of flesh, Shylock exclaims:

"A Daniel come to judgment! Yea, a Daniel!
O wise young judge, how do I honor thee!"

Would that I could say that Daniel was more to my young friends than Tom, Dick or Harry, but I must tell the truth and say that they had never heard about Belshazzar's feast, "when Jehovah's vessels held the godless heathens' wine."

To finish this sad story of Bible ignorance, when Portia in her great speech says:

"The quality of mercy is not strained,

Therefore Jew.
Consider this—
That in the course of justice none of us Should see salvation."

Portia might just as well have been braying to the moon, as no idea of the Pauline theology she so grandly preached had ever entered the minds of these Shakespearean high school scholars.

I asked them if they had ever been at Sunday school. They said, "Yes, when we were kids." "Well," I said, "you are goats now; study the Bible and you will read Shakespeare, Browning, Burns, Walter Scott and Dickens with pleasure, and know the references they all make to Bible stories. I say ditto to all the young men at our factories. Get to know the Scriptures, and be diligent in business, and enjoy football, and get your lungs filled with good air and your minds enriched by good reading."

REPUBLICAN RALLY

wise and pound-foolish if they result in wages lower still, with a net decrease of purchasing power after striking a balance. The articles of importance affected by the president's vetoes were cotton and woolen goods, boots and shoes. Those take not more than one-eighth of the total expenditure of the average family. Their manufacture gives a livelihood to one-quarter of the wage-earners of Massachusetts. We do not believe the people of Massachusetts desire to save a small slice of one-eighth of what they spend if thereby the livelihood of one-quarter of their number will be seriously diminished or destroyed. The vetoes of the president said in effect that the three great industries of Massachusetts should not be endangered by guesswork legislation. Do you, Mr. Whipple, think the contrary? And do you, Mr. Foss, hold that the action of any congress or any president of the United States has had anything to do with an increase of prices that has been world-wide?"

Mr. Luce was followed by Congressman Foster, also a witty and forceful speaker. He said that there should be no hesitancy on the part of the voters this fall, as the issue is straight and clearly defined. He spoke of the excellence of the candidates for office, and of their records; and then went on to show the importance of the election, and what is at stake. He, too, discussed the increased cost of living, and said that the profits of the middleman would have to be removed before prices can be bettered. He then explained La Follette's bill and stated the probable effect on the textile industry in Massachusetts it would have if it became law.

Mr. Cole was the next speaker. He confined his address to the relation between Massachusetts and the Nation as it appears in the present campaign. On the subject of tariff revision, he spoke of the prosperous condition of the country under 40 years of Republican tariff as contrasted to the six years of Democratic supervision. He then went on to show how groundless is the charge made that Massachusetts capitalization is excessive, and Massachusetts dividends too large, giving statistics, in doing so, of the relation between capital and product in three Southern and three Western states as compared with Massachusetts, and proving by figures that in the case of the latter, the relation is smaller than in any of the other states. He said that the nation is looking to Massachusetts to see her solution of the problem that is confronting the textile world, and that it is the duty of the voters to secure the correct solution.

The last speaker was Moses Marshall of Lawrence. Mr. Marshall gave an account of the past five years of his administration, and his success in his work, and asked the Republicans of Andover to support him at the coming election.

WOMEN HELPED

By Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy for Kidneys and Liver.

Disorders of women are the result of general bodily weakness. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is a strength builder and for women it has proved of great value. Thousands testify to this. A sick woman almost always has kidney trouble, which causes pain in the back, headache, nervousness and other distressing symptoms. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy helps the kidneys and liver to act properly, purifies the blood and gently moves the bowels, striking at the cause of kidney, liver, blood and bladder troubles.

For over 35 years it has enjoyed steady and merited success, for it is an honest remedy and has stood the test of time. Write Dr. David Kennedy Co., Rondout, N. Y. for a free sample bottle and valuable medical booklet. Large bottle $1.00 at all druggists.

ATTRACTIONS AT THE THEATRES

Frances Ring in "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford, Park Theatre, Boston.

Boston Theatres

Plymouth—The Irish Players.
Next week "Pomander Walk."
Tremont—"Madame Sherry."
Colonial—"The Red Widow."
Castle Sq.—"As You Like It."
Hollis—"Nobody's Widow."
Majestic—"The Gamblers."
Park—"Wallingford."
Boston—"Miss Dudelsack."

TREMONT

"Madame Sherry" is appearing at the Tremont this week, and is a great success. The story of the opera is light and frivolous and tells of the attempts of a young man-about-town, who attempts to fool his uncle, who, by the way, supplies the cash, into thinking he is married and has two beautiful children. The uncle appearing suddenly, it is necessary for wife and children to be secured, and here is where the comedy comes in. The maid, for the minute, becomes the wife, a little over fond of wine, and the children, in embryo, are two lovers who are altogether too loving for a brother and sister. The situations developed are very funny.

COLONIAL

Raymond Hitchcock is on the eighth and last week of his engagement in "The Red Widow," at the Colonial. The play has captivated all who have seen it.

CASTLE SQUARE

The Craig stock company is presenting with great success "As You Like It." The company is extremely well suited to the play, Miss Young being excellent as Rosalind. The attraction next week will be Sir Gilbert Parker's "The Right of Way."

BOSTON

"Miss Dudelsack," the charming Viennese opera at the Boston theatre, closes its engagement there this week. The opera is an unusual treat for theatre-goers and music-lovers, and has been highly successful in Boston.

HOLLIS STREET

Blanche Bates is scoring a big success at the Hollis Street theatre in "Nobody's Widow." The role of the widow is the best in which Miss Bates has played since she appeared in "The Girl of the Golden West," and the entire play is thoroughly enjoyable.

MAJESTIC

"The Gamblers" is on its fourth big week at the Majestic theatre. Charles Klein's indictment of the get-rich-quick methods of Wall Street is proving to be a huge success. Next week will close the engagement, however, as on November 5 "The Outsiders" will be the attraction.

PLYMOUTH

After a year's successful run at Wallace's theatre in New York, "Pomander Walk," Louis N. Parker's delightful comedy opens at the Plymouth theatre, Boston, on Monday evening for the first time in this city. The play scored one of the biggest hits in New York last season and there is every reason to believe that it will achieve as great if not a greater success in Boston. "Pomander Walk" is a cheerful, refreshing and delightful little comedy that will surely please you, from first to last, or nothing on earth can please you. It is one of those plays that sends you out of the theatre thinking that, after all, life is worth living. It is an exquisite play, full of quaint charm and humor. In fact it is almost impossible to convey to the reader an adequate idea of the magnetic charm of this delightful comedy.

Pomander Walk is a crescent of six houses, built in the reign of Queen Anne, and facing a section of a canal leading into the Thames on the outskirts of London. It was there, in the year 1805, that some very remarkable things happened, much to the amazement, consternation and ultimate joy of the dozen odd people who dwelt there at the time. It is this place and these people that concern Mr. Parker in his charming play. It is distinctly new in comedy and carries with it an abundance of personal charm. It routs you out of the busy today and sets you a-dream. If you would dwell in the land of happiness, then see this play.

The cast is the same that presented the play in New York. The members are all English and each bears a wide reputation. Miss Dorothy Parker, daughter of the author and one of the prettiest and most accomplished young women that now grace the stage, is the leading lady.

The management of the Plymouth theatre is making a special feature of paying strict and immediate attention to mail orders.

BOSTON

With all of the opulent splendor of the Orient, the magnificence of Rome in her most glorious days, and the beauty of tropical settings, "Ben-Hur" will return to the Boston theatre on Thursday evening, November 2, for a limited engagement.

Klaw & Erlanger, the owners of this most wonderful piece of theatrical property, have this season given it a production which will outdistance any production ever before seen on the American stage. The magnitude of the scenic settings is of such a nature that there are only four theatres in America with stages large enough on which to place the equipment. These theatres are the historic Boston Theatre in Boston, the New Amsterdam Theatre in New York, the beautiful Forrest Theatre in Philadelphia, and the great Auditorium Theatre in Chicago. Only three of these cities, however, will have an opportunity of seeing this new and wonderful production of "Ben-Hur"—Boston, New York and Philadelphia.

In selecting the cast to present the Wallace-Young drama in the midst of this superb environment Klaw & Erlanger have chosen Richard Buhler for the title part. Mr. Buhler is a young actor of great physical beauty, his type ideally fitting the role of the young Hur. William J. Kelly, one of the most popular of the New York leading men, will be the Messala in the fine cast, and Oscar Adye, one of England's best actors, comes from London to enact Simonides. Other important players are Mark Price, Emmet C. King, J. Arthur Young, Marion Barney, who will be the Iras; Cecil Kern, Lillian Lawrence, an old time Boston favorite; Rose Beaudet and Alice Haynes. A chorus of more than 150 trained singers will render the special music written for "Ben-Hur" by Edgar Stilman Kelley, and an army of 400 trained supernumeraries will fill the scenes where crowds are necessary. The engagement of "Ben-Hur" at the Boston Theatre is a limited one. During the season, matinees will be given on Wednesday and Saturdays each week.

Voting to open the social season for the C. Y. M. A. of Lawrence with a barn dance in St. Mary's hall during the week of November 13, and to conduct various social events at fortnightly periods throughout the coming season, the entertainment committee of the association met and organized for the year Sunday morning.

A Republican rally will be held in the city hall this evening, and an excellent list of speakers has been engaged. Chairman Joseph Spencer of the Republican city committee will preside, and among the speakers will be Hon. Louis A. Frothingham, Republican candidate for governor; Congressman David J. Foster of Vermont, Congressman William S. Greene of Fall River, and Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, assistant United States district attorney.

Oiling the Atlantic

Pouring oil on troubled waters will be much more than a metaphor if a plan offered by the United States Hydrographic Office is carried out. Its serious proposal is to keep the path between New York and the Northern European ports well oiled, so that the waves may be kept down and passengers may cross in perfect comfort. The Hydrographic Office knows a lot about waves, and claims that nothing is so bad for them as oil. Moreover, oil spreads quickly and thinly over the water, and hence the calming can be done at small expense. A quart of cheap petroleum an hour for each ship would, they say, do the work in decent weather, and twenty-five dollars per trip ought to cover it easily. With the big liners constantly passing, the part carried away by the ocean currents would be restored without delay. From the October Wide World Magazine.

The good of the order next Monday evening will consist of a "Question box" meeting, to which all Good Templars are cordially invited.

Celebrated 75th Birthday

Mrs. George P. Byington celebrated her 75th birthday in an appropriate manner, Monday afternoon at her home on High street. Many of her friends and neighbors called during the afternoon to offer congratulations, and many letters and messages of good will were received from those who could not be present. A number of her young friends were present. Special preparation had been made for them and they certainly had the time of their lives. The customary birthday cake, with its 75 candles, presented a very novel and pleasing sight. Mrs. Byington received many beautiful mementoes of the occasion, including a remembrance from her Bible class. The affair was a complete success in every respect.

Wedding

CAREY-MERCER

Miss Mary G. Carey and Anderson Mercer of Charlotte, N. C., were married in Andover at seven o'clock Wednesday evening by Rev. Fr. Donovan. The bride, who is one of the popular young ladies of the town, was prettily attired in a blue travelling suit, with hat to match. Miss Margaret Southwood was the bridesmaid and was becomingly attired in blue, with a picture hat. W. C. Penhaligon of Boston was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Mercer were the recipients of many useful and costly presents of cut glass, silver, and money, including a very handsome parlor mirror from Dr. and Mrs. Tenney of New York.

The bride is a popular and well-known young lady of the village, and has many friends. Mr. Mercer is manager of the Merciles Country club, which is the largest one in the state.

A turkey supper was served to about 25 guests at the home of the bride, and a reception followed. The happy couple left town about 9.30 on a short wedding trip. Mr. and Mrs. Mercer will make their home in Charlotte, N. C.

Obituary

HENRY NICE

The late Henry Nice, an old and well-known resident of Andover, whose death was announced in the Townsman last week, was born in Mallon, Ireland, in 1832. He came to this country when he was twenty years of age, and settled in Lawrence. Mr. Nice was an employee in the Pemberton mill at the time that that structure fell with such awful results. He served as a nurse in the Civil war, and voted for the first mayor ever elected in the city of Lawrence.

Mr. Nice was gardener and caretaker of the Samuel Gray estate in this town for over thirty years, and was still a trusted employee of the estate when death, due to pneumonia, after one week of illness, ended his long and useful life.

THIS FOR REMEMBRANCE
There's a shadow on our threshold,
The sky of life hangs low,
Life's changeful hand is sending forth
The minor notes of woe.
The chords strike inward to the heart,
Ah, freely we may weep!
For one beloved has passed beyond,
And sleeps the dreamless sleep.
They say he has but journeyed
To a land not far away,
Where sweet flowers grow perennial
In the light of endless day.
Yet keen is the bereavement,
And we do not need to tell
That his memory is as fragrant
As the flowers he loved so well.
Of firm conviction he could be
As a "hero in the strife,"
Yet he was as a child at heart
And led the peaceful life.
He knew in whom he placed his trust,
The knowledge made him bold;
Like the large, abiding faith,
Like the patriarchs' of old,
And thus through length of useful life
He walked by faith and trust;
Ah, surely his was as the life
That blossoms in the dust.

The Andover Association Meets

The fall meeting of the Andover Association of Churches and Ministers took place on Tuesday afternoon and evening in the Congregational church at Tewksbury. The general theme of the conference was "The Claims of the Church."

Rev. Arthur Barber of Lawrence was moderator. The afternoon session opened at 2.30 o'clock, Rev. George E. Lovejoy of South Lawrence conducting the devotional service. A business session took place at which reports were read and routine business transacted. Rev. F. R. Shipman, chairman of the committee on systematic giving, presented an appointment plan for 1912.

Addresses were then made by several speakers. Rev. James E. Gregg of the Kirk Street church, Lowell, spoke on "The Decline of the Church-going Habit." Rev. B. A. Willmott, also of Lowell, took as his subject, "How Can the Church-going Habit be Revived?"

A general discussion in which many laymen and ministers took part followed these addresses.

Rev. J. J. Walker of Boston then spoke on "The Claim of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society upon the Churches."

At six o'clock a supper was served by the ladies of the church in the vestry.

The evening session opened at 7.30 o'clock, Rev. F. R. Shipman leading the devotional service. The first address was made by Rev. Joseph H. Crocker, D.D., of Boston, on "The Contribution of the Church to the Community." He said that a church may be doing a great many good things and yet fail utterly as a church. A little church in some small place may give its chief energies to the support of a kindergarten—a noble work in its way—but if the men and women give their attention to the free kindergarten and do not attend church, do not set an example in their homes, of a prayerful life, if, in other words, that church fails in its true spiritual function, it is as a church a failure. It has not made the contribution to that community for which it is set apart.

What is needed most of all today is not a new church policy, but greater religious power. The trouble lies in the Christianity which we display. The only contribution that the church can make to the community, that is of any permanent value, is that which lies along the lines of religious or Christian nurture.

Judge C. U. Bell spoke on "The Church's Claim upon the Citizenship of the Community." He referred to some of the subjects that the church has a right to expect that the citizens will consider. Among these, he mentioned taxation, and said that one of the phenomena of our times is the increase of expenditure on the part of all public bodies. That means that there are people who are ardent for new subjects of taxation. They are saying that church property does not contribute to the support of the state. It is important for the citizens to consider these questions; to consider what taxation is and upon whom it falls. We must be prepared to vindicate the church's freedom from taxation. We must remember that taxation falls upon individuals, and not be deceived by the fact that they are called corporations. It is the men who pay the taxes.

He referred to the schools among the things in which citizens should be interested, because they go to make up the moral character of the community. It is better that a young man should go into the world knowing the ten commandments and obeying them, than to know the multiplication table. Every dishonest government is a reproach to the community and a hindrance to the church. We have a right to ask all citizens that they shall stand for good government. We have a right to ask that our citizens shall continue to be guided by that inheritance of our forefathers, which was called the New England conscience.

North Andover Easy Winner

The Andover club was badly defeated in its tournament with North Andover last night in the club house of the latter, by a score of 10 points to 3.

After a good start when Andover secured the first point in bowling, the team went to pieces and North Andover won the other three points.

In whist, North Andover took the three points. They also secured all the points in pool. Andover won two points in billiards when Weeks won a decisive victory over Chickering.

The best contest of the evening was that in pool between Clark and Masslyn. The latter won after a close race, 75 to 72. Both men played hard and the outcome was in doubt all through the game.

Sweden's "Church-boat"

The "church-boat" is a popular institution in Sweden. It brings families to service from the farms around Lake Siljan to Leksand. The water route is the nearest and most convenient, and so the big boat goes from farm to farm along the shore picking up the churchgoers, who later return by the same route.—Wide World Magazine.
